

Knowledge Integration (KI) Zone for Parents and Teachers

(Research on various aspects of Kids Development which can be PRACTICALLY used by Parents and Teachers)

We often follow the saying “Do not work hard but work SMART”. The same thing we also inculcate in our children. Working smart requires a smart thought process. The smart thought process is often converted into some research hypothesis and many researcher around the globe do find innovative ways to make our work smarter. Numerous research is being carried out on child development across different countries and most of the times such research remains in the form of research articles in scientific research journals. It is hardly used for the benefit of the children.

It goes without saying that our capacity to use those research for the benefit for our children would make us more responsible and more professional in our endeavour of building a strong nation.

KIDS PACKET makes various efforts through its team of professionals to scan through various research done on child development and convert them to simple articles, various games and activities so that we as parents and teachers use them effortlessly for the development our own kids.

To facilitate this, KIDS PACKET brings a section called “Knowledge Integration Zone for Parents and teachers”. Under this section we would be bringing various research related news, activities and games for the benefit of children. .

We hope that each parent and teacher would love to have the knowledge to manage our kids to achieve the overall growth.
